FINGER CUTTER

STEP-BY-STEP WITH DURAM

1. Make sure that the rubber finger sits inside the cutter and that the upper blade and the lower anvil are both attached to the disc. This will enable you to achieve a clean cut exactly at the fingers' neck.

2. Press the trigger. The blade closes and the rubber finger is cut. If you made sure that the cutter is attached to the disc, it will be cut at the neck, right at the disc.
Note: recommended airpressure 5-8 bar

3. Release the trigger. The blade opens and the finger falls off.

ATTENTION!
The cutter is very sharp!
Make sure your hands and fingers are not on the place you are about to cut.
